Project result:

After fire safety education, staff demonstrated an increase in perceived and actual fire knowledge. Forty-five percent of individual pre-education reported knowledge of fire safety compared to an increase of 90% post education. Actual knowledge was enhanced as correct response on the pre-education survey was 81% in comparison to the post-education survey of 96%.

Reference

3. ECRI Institute new clinical gu to surgical fire prevention. Health Devices, October 2009
4. Webinar: Practical Advice for preventing Surgical fires – Safety strategies from the front line, June 12 2012