Dr. J. William Hillman was born in Dante, Virginia, on January 9, 1921. He graduated from the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine, where he also completed an internship in general surgery under Dr. Alfred Blalock. After two years in the U.S. Navy Medical Corps, he returned to Johns Hopkins for his orthopaedic residency, 1949–51, under Dr. Robert W. Johnson, Jr. Following his residency, Dr. Hillman became the first full-time Instructor in Orthopaedic Surgery at Johns Hopkins.

In 1952, he was appointed Assistant Professor of Orthopaedic Surgery at Vanderbilt Medical School. Dr. Hillman possessed an enormous capacity for work, and within six years became Professor and Head of Orthopaedics, then a section of General Surgery. By 1962 he had succeeded in convincing the Dean to establish an autonomous Department of Orthopaedics and Rehabilitation. He served as the Department’s first Chairman until his death on March 6, 1970, at age 49.

Dr. Hillman’s research interests encompassed a broad spectrum, including epiphyseal growth factors, perimetry in the assessment of scoliosis, the surgical management of cerebral palsy, hormone therapy for SCFE, and the pathogenesis of fat embolism. He was a member of the American Orthopaedic Association, the American Board of Orthopaedic Surgery’s Board of Directors, the Executive Committee of the American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons, and the AMA Residency Review Committee. In 1975, the Department of Orthopaedics & Rehabilitation established the Hillman Lectureship in honor of Dr. Hillman.

CME Information

COMPETENCE
After participating in this CME activity, participants should be able to describe and discuss how to:
• Evaluate shoulder injuries and apply the appropriate guidelines for shoulder rehabilitation
• Implement recent advances in patient management and surgical techniques for total elbow arthroplasty
• Incorporate evidence-based medicine into clinical practice

LEARNING OBJECTIVES/TARGET AUDIENCE
This lecture series, conducted by an eminent orthopaedic surgeon, is intended for orthopaedists and orthopaedic residents in training. Upon completion of this program, attendees should be able to:
• Identify and evaluate shoulder injuries and apply the appropriate examination
• Describe and incorporate evidence-based medicine into preparation for re-certification (ABOS)
• Describe and avoid complications in total elbow arthroplasty

In addition sessions will seek Dr. Green’s and Dr. Spengler’s opinions regarding the management of orthopaedic cases at VU.
